1. Scope

This policy explains how Lex Markets Ltd. processes personal data when operating its institutional information website and conducting provider due diligence and business communications. The website does not currently provide client registration, account, payment or trading functions and therefore does not collect client identity, financial or trading information through the website.

2. Data controller

The controller is Lex Markets Ltd., incorporated in Saint Lucia under the International Business Companies Act, Cap. 12.14, section 6, with company number 2026-00656 (document number 5208594) and registered office at Unit 1 / Ground Floor, La Place Creole Building, Rodney Village, Rodney Bay, Gros-Islet, Saint Lucia. Privacy questions and rights requests may be sent to support@lexmarkets.io.

3. Data we may process

Institutional contact data may include name, role, employer or organisation, work email, work telephone and communications. Due-diligence and compliance data may include professional identity, authority and document records related to corporate services, banking, technology or other provider due diligence. Technical and security data may include IP address, access time, browser or device type, requested pages, errors and security-event data.

4. Sources

Data may be provided by the individual, their organisation, corporate-service providers, professional advisers, public corporate registers, sanctions sources, and website hosting or security systems.

5. Purposes

We process personal data to answer institutional enquiries, assess and manage potential partnerships, complete institutional and provider due diligence, verify authorised representatives, maintain security, prevent fraud or misuse, comply with legal obligations and retain corporate decisions and communications. Website data is not used for automated consumer marketing, behavioural advertising or cross-site profiling.

6. Legal bases

Depending on applicable law, bases may include legitimate interests in operating an institutional website, maintaining security and conducting business communications; compliance with legal obligations; steps before or performance of an institutional contract; and consent where required.

7. Recipients

Where necessary, personal data may be shared with directors, management and authorised personnel; legal, audit, compliance and technology advisers; hosting, cybersecurity and communications providers; and law enforcement, courts or public authorities legally entitled to receive it. The company does not sell personal data.

8. International transfers

Institutional work and provider services may involve cross-border processing. Where required, the company uses contractual controls, access restrictions, provider assessment or other appropriate safeguards and transfers only data necessary for the relevant purpose.

9. Retention

Data is retained only as long as needed for its purpose, legal obligations, disputes and security. General institutional-enquiry records are normally retained for no more than five years unless law, litigation hold or contract requires longer.

10. Security

The company uses risk-appropriate organisational and technical measures, including access controls, least privilege, MFA, provider due diligence, logging, backup, incident response and confidentiality requirements. No internet transmission or storage method can be guaranteed absolutely secure.

11. Individual rights

Subject to applicable law, an individual may request access, correction, deletion, restriction, objection, a copy of data or withdrawal of consent, and may complain to a competent data-protection authority. The company may verify identity before responding. Rights can be limited by legal obligations, confidentiality, litigation and other lawful exceptions.

12. Cookies and tracking technologies

The website does not currently use advertising, marketing, analytics or cross-site tracking technologies. If cookies, analytics or other tracking technologies are introduced, this policy will be updated before activation and consent obtained where required by applicable law.

13. Children

The website is intended for institutions and professional counterparties, not children. The company does not knowingly collect children's personal data through the website.

14. Automated decisions

The company does not currently use data collected through the website for solely automated decisions that produce legal or similarly significant effects on an individual.

15. Updates

The company may update this policy for legal, technical or business changes. The current version will be published with its effective date, and material changes will be highlighted where appropriate.

16. Contact

Privacy questions, rights requests or complaints may be sent to support@lexmarkets.io.
