1. Purpose

This disclaimer applies to the LEX Markets website and public materials. The website provides project-level background information to technology, banking, liquidity, professional-advisory and other potential institutional partners.

2. Current status

Lex Markets Ltd. is in the business preparation stage, does not provide client onboarding, funding or trading services to the public, and does not accept client applications, funds, orders or trading instructions. Proposed services may launch only after all required approvals and operational readiness.

3. No solicitation or advice

Nothing on the website is investment or trading advice, a personal recommendation, legal or tax advice, a quotation, offer, solicitation, invitation to open an account or financial promotion. Markets and products described are not currently available for trading.

4. General market information

Information about forex, metals, indices, energy and shares describes general market structure and risk only. It does not consider any person's objectives, finances, experience or risk tolerance. Leveraged derivatives carry substantial risk of loss; complete risk disclosures will be issued separately if such services become available.

5. Forward-looking and proposed information

Statements about future systems, products, partnerships, scope, launch timing and controls are proposed plans. They may change because of external approvals, provider decisions, contract negotiations, test results, market conditions or company decisions and are not commitments or guarantees.

6. Third-party names

MetaTrader 5 and other third-party names identify technology or services intended for evaluation or use. A reference does not mean provider approval, contracting, deployment, endorsement or partnership is complete. Names and marks belong to their respective owners.

7. Accuracy

The company takes reasonable steps to maintain website content but gives no express or implied warranty of completeness, accuracy, timeliness, suitability or continuing availability. Formal due diligence must rely on corporate documents, contracts, public records and mutually confirmed information.

8. Third-party materials and links

The company does not control third-party materials, websites or services and is not responsible for their content, privacy, security, availability or resulting loss. Visitors assess and access third-party resources at their own risk.

9. Technology and access

The website may be interrupted, delayed or erroneous because of maintenance, networks, devices, security events or circumstances outside the company's control. The company does not warrant that it is free of malware or vulnerabilities or suitable for every device and location.

10. Limitation of liability

To the fullest extent permitted by law, Lex Markets Ltd. and related persons are not liable for direct or indirect loss, lost profit, data, opportunity or reputation, or consequential loss arising from use, inability to use or reliance on the website. Nothing excludes liability that applicable law prohibits from being excluded.

11. Geographic availability

Publication does not mean that any service is available in a country or region. Future jurisdictions, client eligibility and product scope will be published according to local law, contractual restrictions, sanctions requirements and company risk policy.

12. Updates and contact

The company may update this disclaimer at any time. Questions about the company's current status or this disclaimer may be sent to support@lexmarkets.io.
